The Hollywood crowd is still recovering from yet another award show and the accompanying seemingly endless parties and suites. The Emmys bring out all the VIPS of the industry, networking and hobnobbing while sipping the official Beaulieu Vineyard wine. So hopping from party to party and suite to lounge was the order of the week. Plus, buzzing about what's hot in Hollywood never gets old, so here Yahoo readers is my insider list of the "A List" events, what's being talked about and more!

Parties and Events:

Women In Film and Variety had their Pre-Emmy Celebration at Scarpetta At The Montage. WIF's President, Noted Academy Award winning Producer Cathy Schulman, remains hopeful for women in Tinseltown despite the challenges. She told me that, "Women in Hollywood are making strides, but unfortunately we still have the same problems in terms of statistics that we have had for years. On the positive side though, this has been an extraordinary year for shows exhibiting women in all shapes and sizes with all their imperfections and their amazing qualities. So this year bodes well for women. Lets hope it continues for a long time." WIF's event was filled with some of Hollywood's most powerful players including; Electus's Ben Silverman, Producer Ilene Kahn Power, AMC's Josh Sapan, Netflix's Ted Sarandos and his wife, former ambassador Nicole Avant, Mad Men's Matt Weiner, Manager/Producer Derek Power and more. Celebs included Julia Louis -Dreyfus Julie Bowen, Jesse Tyler Ferguson and what a lovely sight to see the elegant Diahann Carroll. NYPD Blue's Dennis Franz was chatting with his co-star Sharon Lawrence while Mad Men's Christina Hendricks was chatting with Top Chef's Padma Lakshmi. Girl's Allison Williams was laughing with E!'s Joel McHale. WIF is a vital voice in Hollywood and as Cathy Schulman wisely said to the crowd, lets hope that women in Hollywood can toast their successes for years to come!

Heifer International, a worthy group that works with smallholder farms in more than 40 countries to provide and empower self-reliance and ensure economic security to those in need, had their fundraiser also at the Montage Hotel. Heifer International had helped more than 15.5 million families, and raised awareness to over 79 million people about being eco-friendly and improving their own lives as well as their community. Jane Fonda co-hosted the event. Diane Lane, who had planned to be at the event and host the evening, was stuck in Chicago doing a play. Diane helped plan the entire event and asked her friend Jane to step in at the 11th hour. Ted Danson and wife Mary Steenburgen, longtime supporters of Heifer, were honored with the "Noble Globe Award," which was presented by Jon Heder and his wife Kirsten. The evening ended with a performance by Colbie Caillat who had the entire crowd on their feet. www.heifer.org

At BAFTA's Los Angeles TV Tea at the London Hotel, Neal Stiles, Bafta's Los Angeles Chairman, told me that, "We always have an amazing turnout. This tea is now firmly on the circuit as a very important part of Emmy weekend. British people populate TV in LA. Not only in front of the camera, got some surprises. That it will be broadcast on BBC America is exciting because it will bring a quintessentially British event to a British Network for America. "

The History Channel had their shindig honoring "Hatfields & McCoys" at the Soho House Saturday night. Kevin Costner, Bill Paxton and Tom Berenger were there as well as MSNBC's Lawrence O'Donnell. I congratulated Lawrence on his recent rating success, he told me, "MSNBC makes it easy." Jeanne Wolf, Hollywood's doyenne of Journalists, was as big a hit there as Kevin!

HBO had their ultra fabulous annual bash at the Pacific Design Center in West Hollywood. Designed by the talented party designer Billy Butchkavitz, who along with his brother Brian and sister Peggy have been designing this lavish event for years. As usual, HBO was packed with celebs and VIP's. Seen were Ricky Gervais telling the legendary Mel Brooks that Mel is his hero, Nicole Kidman with husband Keith Urban, also came over to Mel Brooks and told him what fans they were of him. Jane Fonda and Richard Perry were sitting with her brother Peter Fonda and Michael J. Fox with his wife Tracey Pollan and son Sam. HBO always garners the most celebrities, from Tom Hanks and Rita Wilson, Emmy winner Jay Roach and his wife the talented Bangle's singer/songwriter Claire Danes, Sofia Vergara, Julianna Margulies, Dick Cavett, E!'s Bruce Perlmutter, Emmy winning for Game Change Playtone's Gary Goetzman, Steven Shreshian, and Nori Chia, Producer Chuck Lorre, New York Power Publicist Norah Lawlor and many more industry VIP's. HBO events are renowned in Hollywood, and always the most coveted ticket of any award season.

Emmy Lounges/Suites:

Doris Bergman successfully kicked off the countdown to the Emmy's with her 3rd annual Primetime Emmy Style Lounge. Doris's classy suite took place at Café La Boheme in West Hollywood and attracted some of televisions top VIP's. The event was hosted by Qmadix, presented by Whitening Lightning and co-produced by Michelle Faulkner. The guest also enjoyed the Café's delicious 5-star cuisine. This event benefitted "Wednesday's Child," which highlights harder to place children in the LA County foster care system. Highlights included Terox Footwear; earth friendly, shock absorption and propulsion, made in USA, cushiony and beyond comfortable. Terox CEO Rocco Azzarito totally is committed to Terox being made in America. Next up is Handmade Hearts, beautiful original art glass wrapped in silver and gold created with love by Hillel Rzepka. Other highlights were Roadkill Ranch, goddess-sy LusciousS Jewelry, Prana SpaCeuticals, Ali Rahimi for Mon Atelier, Nature's Flavors, Honest Tea, Twisted Silver, Art Lewin Executive Clothiers, Adam Pratt's cool Radar Watches, Spongeables, Model in a Bottle, Totally Healthy Lifestyle, Baron Hats, Michael Marcus Cosmetics, Ollin Arm Candy and more. Dynamic Doris sure knows how to kick-start the Emmy week!

The Softcup Beauty Retreat took place as the lavish home of The Real Housewives of Beverly Hills star Adrienne Maloof (who coincidentally put her home on the market the same day for a whopping price of $26 million). Celebrity guests and tastemakers enjoyed massages by Bliss, libations by Zing Vodka, the Maloof family's brand new spirit venture, Effy Bling and more. Guests had their make up done by Colorescience, the terrific products that fuse the beauty of traditional makeup with the benefits and efficacy of skincare.

Debbie Durkin, a noted sustainable film and television producer, had her 6th annual green interactive "ECO Emmys Celebrity Chateau," suite in Hancock Park. This suite benefitted Guard A Heart and Beat Liver Tumors. Eco luxury brands included Michael Foster Men's luxury scarves, this talented designer is soon coming out with women's scarves as well, watch for him! Nympho Vodka, Loved Line Pet ID Tags, Tosi, LifeSource Water Systems, Luna & Cliff Bar Co., The Trance-Master John Cerbone, ate yummy food by Urban Fresh Beverly Hills, and got into beach mode with Odina Eco Surf Style bikinis, one pieces and shorts for men. Hip and green, what a cool combo!

Michele Elyzabeth, the powerful plugged in Publisher of LATF The Magazine, hosted the ultra pampering suite at the popular tony Le Posh salon in West Hollywood. Stars autographed a gift bag which was later auctioned off to benefit The Children's Hospital Los Angeles. Guests were royally

Penguin Books, BodyMagnetix 360, Hula Girl, LaBrea Bakery, AL Spa, Rashel's Miracle Peel, Isabella Cookies, Izze, Starfire Water and more.

The highlight was the internationally known hairstylist Charlie de Paris. Charlie is known for her innovative, cutting edge hairstyles and she is one of the top most respected hairdressers in the world. She artfully works her hair magic shuttling between LA and Paris. Charlie's clients include Isabella Rossellini, Catherine Deneuve, The Queen of Jordan, Kate Moss, Naomi Campbell, Princess Caroline, Isabelle Adjani and more. LATF's event was the classiest of the bunch. Top Reality Casting Producer Cara Jedell told me that, I love Le Posh and Michele sure knows how to produce an amazing Emmy event!"

On3 Productions always comes through in a big splashy way at awards season. Their Emergen-C Gift lounge at the Nokia Theater, where the Emmys took place, attracted tons of nominees and presenters. This lounge had of course Emergen-C®, Bertolli® Sauces and Frozen Meals, Zerona (Body-Sculpting Treatments), New Balance (Minimus 1010's), TiVo® (Premiere 4 DVR), New Era Cap Co., Black & Decker (PLATINUM Hand Vacs), CND (Shellac™ Manicures), Kipling, Ultimate Ears by Logitech, Aquaswiss Watches, Jill Reno Collection, Crunch and more. Extra's Mario Lopez caused quite the stir when he posed in the phone booth at the Emergen-C City of Inner Strength station and accidentally yanked out the phone. Embarrassed, he yelled, "I had one sip of Emergen-C and now I'm the Incredible Hulk!". New Balance sneakers and the Crunch certificate are always perennial favorites. Biggest Loser's Jillian Michaels has been teaching some classes at the mega popular Crunch, which recently opened a gym in Burbank. On3's Emergen-C Lounge was the talk of the folks at the Emmys!

Side Bar: People Are Talking About For Health, Beauty, Movies And More!
